Theater developer eyes Romulus City bids for convention business

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Move over Detroit, the City of Romulus may be going into the convention center business, if Mayor Terry L. Troutt is successful in persuading a New York developer to build a 4,000 seat convention-theater in the city.

Although Troutt admits the talks are "only in a preliminary stage," he said: "I have met with individuals who built a theater in New York. They have shown interest in building a similar theater in this community." Troutt said the theater could be part of a small convention center.

'All this city needs is someone daring enough to give an idea a try.'

THE DEVELOPERS are looking for a 20 acre piece of property with a commercial zoning for use as a theater site, but have made no moves to purchase land yet," he added.

The prospective theater developers are looking on Wayne and Wick roads and near the Romulus City Hall for a site.

Although the developers have made no commitment, Troutt said, the prospective development "could be a big asset to this community."

"Naturally, I'm interested in any development which gives Romulus a different image than what it has now," Troutt added. "I look about me, and I see a community that hasn't changed substantially during the past 10 or 15 years, even though it's offering the residents many unique assets."

THE MAYOR SAID he believes Romulus could serve as the hub of activity in South-eastern Michigan, if developed properly.

"This city offers the airport — something no other city can offer," Troutt said. "Because of that, there is an untold number of tourists who must visit Romulus first before going anywhere else in Michigan. So this city should give them something unique to capitalize on their stay."

"Some cities have festivals, but with the travelers passing through here, it may be more important to offer them the opportunity to enjoy theater, or to hold a meeting."

"I don't believe Romulus could rival Detroit's Cobo Hall, but what's to say it can't have its own convention center which will use the airport and the surrounding motels to provide transportation and comfort to travelers?"

WHAT'S TO SAY that Romulus couldn't have one of the so-called trade centers which seem to spring up around other regional airports to give company executives a chance to view the products available to them?

"All this city needs is someone daring enough to give an idea a try, and I'm sure that person will be rewarded for his investment."

Troutt said the individuals who are checking the city to locate a theater in it may be just the type of person Romulus needs to get development rolling.

"I can't emphasize more that the project is merely in the study and speculative stage," Troutt added. "But if the city can do anything to lure it here, the city will proceed."

"That one project could serve as the hub of a series of projects which would not only serve travelers but also residents of Romulus."

CONSTRUCTION 'OUTTER' — Workmen have managed to stack the materials in neat piles as construction continues on the new international terminal at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. The new facility may spur development in Romulus with the increased influx of travelers. The additional traffic through the city also may spur a New York developer to construct a proposed combination theater and convention center to handle the upsurge, according to officials. — Roman photo.

Mayor, clerk at odds on city classification

The mayor of Romulus and the city clerk are at odds when it comes to classifying the city.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt believes the city can be classified as a resort community because of Detroit Metropolitan Airport and thus be eligible for extra liquor licenses.

Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar believes that the airport doesn't qualify the city under a resort classification.

BUT BOTH the mayor and clerk said Romulus needs more liquor licenses because the city must cater to the transient business at the airport year-round.

"I believe there is one law on the books which allows a community operating as a resort to have extra licenses," Troutt said. "Because of the airport and the unique situation it places Romulus in, I think that law would cover this community."

One month ago, Folmar proposed a resolution urging the establishment of a state law calling for unlimited liquor licenses in the community. The council has not acted on the proposal. "My proposal would give the Michigan Liquor Control Commission the right to allow extra liquor licenses within a five mile radius of the airport to cater to airport needs," Folmar said.

He helped write the charter, Now finds it hard to live with

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt is finding it tough to keep a good secretary, and quickly purchase items for the city because of a charter he helped write.

And he intends to pursue several charter changes to enable the city to keep good personnel, and purchase items more than $750 without having to go the normal bid procedure route, as required by the charter.

The city's purchasing procedure was a major issue in last fall's heated mayoral election.

"IT'S IMPOSSIBLE to keep good help for the wages the city is allowed to pay," he said.

"My secretary quit last week because the pay was too low...and she was only on the job three weeks."

According to the city budget, an administrative secretary makes $8,988 per year or the average salary of all secretaries with comparable positions in Wayne County.

"I helped write the charter, so I should take some blame," Troutt said. "But when that document was written, the charter commissioners wanted it tight, to insure that salaries weren't inflated to benefit certain personalities.

"The way the charter is written prohibits the city from keeping good people. The salaries of large and small cities must be computed to determine the pay for a secretary who will work in Romulus."

"IT ISN'T FAIR because of the different work involved," Troutt said. "The problem with salaries is only one of many he's seen in the present city charter since he took office last November."

"There are other requirements, such as a limit on purchases of $750 without bids and a requirement that bids be taken at all times, that harm the city," he added. "I want the charter tight, but I'm afraid it harms the city more than it helps."

"FOR INSTANCE, when the city needed a transmission for the road grader, it had to advertise for bids even though only one company makes those transmissions."

"And the city could save money purchasing vehicles from the state, but it still must bid even though the state goes through a bidding system."

"Why couldn't the charter be changed to allow purchases without bids, so long as some governmental agency takes bids?"

Troutt said he intends to ask this question of the Romulus City Council in an effort to obtain answers in time to put a

For former mayor Change in procedure for purchases too late

In last year's heated mayor race in Romulus, then incumbent Mayor Hyle Carmichael came under heavy political attack for having allegedly allowed the purchase of certain items without normal bidding procedures.

The bidding controversy erupted after an audit report of the city's 1970-71 fiscal year was made public, and used against Carmichael by political opponents.

Adding to the furor was the resignation of then Romulus Department of Public Works Supt. William Pritula, who charged that Carmichael was making him the "fall guy" in some of the questioned purchasing procedures.

AT THAT TIME, Carmichael was attempting to ward off the challenge of Terry L. Troutt in the heated mayoral race.

After the election, Carmichael backers claimed the inflated audit report, and unwarranted political charges of wrong-doing let to Troutt's victory over the former mayor in the November run-off.

And now Mayor Troutt will seek council approval to remove a city charter clause that requires bidding procedures on the purchase of items costing more than $750.

At the time of the election bidding controversy, Pritula charged that "if I'm guilty, he's (Carmichael) guilty of violating the charter. I have a letter which shows the mayor authorized me to make purchases above the bidding limit 'to get the job done' even though we both knew it was in violation of the city charter."

PRITULA, prior to his Sept. 28 resignation, told The Romulus Roman that Carmichael "asked me to resign because my wife and daughters were passing out literature for candidates not on the mayor's slate."

Carmichael denied Pritula's charges. Though the state audit raised questions on the city's purchasing procedures, it stated that the only wrong it could find was that the city failed to follow the charter purchase procedures.

Special budget hearing deals with Troutt's two proposals

Romulus residents will be asked their opinion of the mayor's two budget proposals at a special hearing before the city council tonight.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt has proposed a $4.36 million "growth" budget and a $3.9 million "status quo" budget. The council has until May 16 to decide on the budget.

Included in the "growth" proposal is a $500,000 recommendation for road paving, $250,000 for continued park growth and $113,000 for increased police protection.

TROUTT HAS proposed that the "extras" be financed without an increase in taxes. The mayor's proposal calls for diverting $617,000 to be collected this fiscal year through the levy of three mills for water bond retirement into the city's general fund while using a more than $600,000 surplus in that and the sewer fund to help pay for $700,000 in bonds due in fiscal 1974-75.

"The city has the money in the fund just sitting there,"

Troutt said. "So there's no reason why it shouldn't be used for debt retirement."

Romulus City Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz said the money came from reimbursement from Wayne County for a downpayment on construction made years ago.

"THE CITY demonstrated it has been able to pay for its bonds every year," Lewkowicz added. "So, the county sent the funds, which guaranteed one year's payment of the water and sewer bonds, back to the city."

"Rather than drawing interest in a county bank account, the money will work directly for the citizens of Romulus."

Troutt added that expenditures would be used to help finance his proposed 21-mile, city-wide paving program, to pay for two new recreation sites, and to hire a juvenile officer and two detectives.

Get tough policy gets in high gear

Romulus' "get tough" policy with litter bugs is getting into high gear.

City inspectors this week started ticketing homeowners with unsightly messes on their property for violation of the city's beautification ordinance.

"The city warned homeowners and said inspectors would be back within a month," Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "That month was up Monday morning and the inspectors were out bright and early."

THE MAYOR added that it may take a couple of weeks for the inspectors to scour all the neighborhoods, but promised all residents will see results soon.

"For the most part, the people are cooperating," he said. "And for those who don't, tickets will be issued. I'm sure the judges will be more lenient on homeowners who cleanup the mess before the court date.

While city inspectors are out checking on homesteads in the city, special high-school-aged workers also will be out cleaning up city property.

More than 40 youths, and tons of junk," Troutt said. "It'll be a few more weeks before the students have completed the project, but by the time they are done and the city inspectors are done, the residents will have a town to be proud of."

The mayor added that he has received complaints from some homeowners who have not received the "warning" letters about the clean-up campaign.

"Some residents think they shouldn't be ticketed because they weren't given a chance to cleanup their property before the inspectors came," Troutt said. "All homes which could be reached were given a letter during our litter 'warning' campaign."

"Even if the homeowners were missed in the campaign, they still will be ticketed because letters aren't required under the beautification ordinance."

Scouts meet Mahalak during visit to capital

Members of Girl Scout Troop 684 of New Boston recently visited Lansing, where they toured the state capitol building and other state facilities as guests of State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus). Rep. Mahalak invited the scouts and their leaders to join him on the floor of the House of Representatives during one of its sessions. The girls also had an opportunity to view a Senate session during their Lansing visit.

Mahalak discussed legislative activities with the scouts.

"It is indeed a pleasure for me to have people from my district visit me at the capitol," he said. "This is particularly true in the case of young people, such as this troop."

Extension service to form bike club

The Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service will be emphasizing the 4-H family bicycle project this summer. Extension 4-H youth agent, Douglas E. Maddex, will be available to assist interested adults and community groups in forming 4-H family bicycle clubs.

Training sessions will be scheduled for club leaders and resource materials will be provided. These will focus on "How To Get Organized," "Activities for Your Club," and information on "Bicycle Safety" and "Bicycle Maintenance and Repair."

These services will be provided at no charge to the public. Interested parties should contact the 4-H office by mail at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Ser-Mahalak said the troop leaders and parents should be commended for giving the youngsters an opportunity to see the operations of the legislature.

"It was an enjoyable experience for me and hopefully for the scouts," he added.

For elected officials

County adopts ethics code

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners recently adopted what is believed to be the first code of ethics for county officials.

Under the code, a five-member ethics commission will be established to investigate alleged violations and to report findings of guilt to the board of commissioners. Commission members will be appointed by the board chairman and confirmed by the board.

Violations will subject elected officials to public censure by a two-thirds vote of the 27-member board of commissioners.

APPOINTED officials are subject to removal by a majority vote of the board.

Appointed officials would be required to file a "full disclosure" of their sources of income at the time of appointment and for the last year.

Financial disclosure is not required of elected officials. The county corporation counsel advised that the board of commissioners does not have legal authority to impose that requirement on elected officials.

THE NEW COUNTY code of ethics covers three areas of conflicts of interest. These are:

- unauthorized divulgence of information for personal gain or the gain of others;
- arrangements for personal benefit based upon official position or authority or upon confidential information gained by reason of such position of authority; and
- solicitation or acceptance of gifts, favors or "other profit arrangements...under any circumstances which tend to influence or have the appearance of influencing the manner in which (an official) performs his work, makes his decisions, or otherwise performs his duties."

ADOPTION of a code of ethics was proposed last year by Commissioners Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit) and John C. Hertel (D-Harper Woods) who now is a state senator. Turner is chairman of the county board's General Government Committee which recommended the code approved by the board.

The code was prepared by a subcommittee including Brian G. Arrowsmith (R-Canton Township), who represents Wayne, Van Buren Township and Plymouth.

Arrowsmith, the subcommittee chairman, said county codes of ethics exist only in Montgomery County, Md. and the State of Iowa.

Cleanup workers needed

Van Buren Township officials have issued another call for volunteers to assist in the second cleanup and repair program at the township's new recreational facility, Van Buren Park.

The work bee will be Saturday. Volunteers are needed to help ready the park for its grand opening on May 27, according to Jeffery G. Clark, director of the township's parks and recreation department.

Clark said $5 park permits are available at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd.

County panel reviews Romulus-Huron drain

The Romulus-Huron Township proposal to construct a storm drain intercept to divert the two communities' storm flow to the Huron River is being studied by the Wayne County Drain Commission.

According to Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt, the commission is researching the legal work needed to give jurisdiction of drain maintenance to both communities. The step is preliminary to the starting of an engineering study to determine whether the Huron River can handle the extra storm flow, which will be sent its way from both communities if the $14 million proposed intercept is constructed.

"IF THE CITY and township receives jurisdiction for maintenance of drains from the county, we'll proceed with the Army Corps of Engineers study," Troutt said.

"The city and township needs that study to determine whether the extra storm water from the two communities can be held back by the Flat Rock dam or whether that extra water pressure would destroy the river basin," he added.

The storm drain intercept would divert more than 30 square miles of Romulus' and 10 square miles of Huron's storm flow from five major drains which carry it the width of Southeastern Michigan to the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

Both communities pay for maintenance not only on the drains within their boundaries, but also on drains heading through Taylor, Brownstown, Riverview, Woodhaven, Trenton, Lincoln Park, Ecorse and Wyandotte.

AND IF THE recent spring thaw is any indication, downstream maintenance of the drainage system is virtually useless, the mayor said.

Sections of both Romulus and Huron become marshes every spring because of drainage problems in the other communities.

"Unfortunately, Romulus and Huron were among the last communities to be developed," Troutt said. "So the least was done along the drain right-of-way to insure that the communities' storm flow is carried away."

"The Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus buys city land for holding ponds to insure that storm water from the airport doesn't flood communities."

"And with airport expansion approaching, Romulus may lose even more land, unless something is done."

ONE OF TWO things could happen in Romulus, the mayor added. The city will either become liable for more than $26 million in drain repairs needed in the downriver storm drain system to accommodate the city's storm flow, or Romulus can build the intercept.

"I've already received preliminary approval from the drain commission on the concept," Troutt said. "All that is needed is the legal footwork."

Troutt said he hopes both communities, in cooperation with the Wayne County Road Commission that operates the airport, can proceed with the engineering study within a month.

Then a decision will be made on whether to proceed with the storm intercept project, the mayor added.

Cost of the preliminary engineering study is $60,000 shared by the two communities and the airport based on land area.

Huron officials plan court fight

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Huron Township officials plan to go to court to stop an alleged threat by Wayne County to halt patrols by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department in the township.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has said the one-man patrol car will be pulled out of the township, if officials don't sign a $186,000 contract for the sheriff's services.

Huron Township Supervisor George W. Moore said a public meeting of the township has been called May 17 to announce the township intention "to ask for a declaratory judgement" on whether the county can halt the patrols and possibly seek an injunction to stop it from carrying out the alleged threat.

COUNTY FUNDING for the sheriff's department expires in October.

Moore said, the board of commissioners informed the township that it would have to sign a $186,000 contract, if the patrol service is to be continued.

Charter changes proposed

possible charter amendment on the primary election ballot in August.

"I WANT to see about the purchasing procedure, the dates required for adoption of the budget, the salaries and other items which get in the way of operating an efficient city," he added.

"It would be good to institute a regular charter review in an effort to make sure the city can function properly," the mayor said. "I can see tens of thousands of dollars wasted because of stringent limitations on the city's purchasing power."

Sheriff's patrols in Huron are handled by one patrol car, 24-hours a day.

"If effect, they want us to buy the car for $186,000," Moore said.

According to the supervisor, the state constitution calls for county policing of unincorporated areas, such as Huron Township.

"THE CONSTITUTION says the county shall patrol the unincorporated areas of the state," he said. "As a township, Huron is controlled on its spending by its millage. The township doesn't have money for things, such as the patrols, like cities do."

"The county wants the township to sign a contract and pay for the service like Romulus."

Moore said Romulus also paid $186,000 for an indefinite length of service.

"The county says Huron is getting the service free, he said. "The township doesn't buy that. There are a lot of things in other parts of the county that Huron doesn't benefit from, but pays for."

"THEY (THE COUNTY commissioners) don't seem to realize that the township has the Huron-Clinton Metropark within the township which is used by two million people a year. And where do those people come from? All over Wayne County."

Moore said Huron is joining an alliance with eight other townships—Sumpter, Van Buren, Grosse Ile, Redford, Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Brownstown—to keep the sheriff's patrols operating. He said the county is seeking the $186,000 from each of the nine townships.

"The township told the commissioners to go jump in the lake," Moore added.

He said the question heading clarification is what the county is required to do in terms of policing the unincorporated areas.

Provide 'budget' pay hikes

Lawmakers take care of state judges

The discovery that the Legislature has in all probability been giving most judges in the state illegal pay raises the last two years isn't really that surprising.

It merely points out a problem quite a few people are worried about around here — not very many people know exactly what is in the budget once the Legislature gets around to enacting it. Bills are trotted out of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees one after the other, given brief explanations on the floor of each chamber, and adopted.

There may be a few hollers from lawmakers trying to make a few political points, but no one really delves into the bills. That would be a long arduous process starting months before they reach the floor and only appropriations committee members really get into that.

THE PROBLEM WITH judicial salaries came because judges of the appeals, circuit and district courts were given raises the past two years in budget bills rather than by changing state law which sets judicial salary levels. The Legislature raised the salaries by appropriating more money, even if the law didn't allow it.

It isn't the first time lawmakers have been caught trying to slip things through in budget bills that don't belong there. The salaries were one of a series of sections tacked onto an appropriation bill. That series of afterthoughts is known as the 'boilerplate.'

"IT IS JUST AN example of them taking the easy way out," explains one legislative legal expert who'd get in trouble with his bosses if he were identified. "An awful lot of that boilerplate is asking for trouble. They tried to regulate the universities with the boilerplate a couple of years ago, but the court nixed that one by saying it violated two things — the autonomy granted universities and forbidding dual purposes in a bill."

One of the problems is that there aren't any lawyers on the Senate Appropriations Committee and only one on the House committee. Each committee can obtain legal advice, of course, but that takes time and it is sometimes easier to just go ahead.

The upshot is that some $3 billion is being divided up by legislators, most of whom have only a vague idea of what they are being asked to do by the Appropriations Committee. And sometimes the committee decides it's easier just to tack on an additional section to a complex bill than it is to write a new law which would be on firmer legal ground.

THIS IS BROUGHT up now because the appropriations committees are ready to start reporting out the 1974-75 budget and it will be finalized over the next two months. At this point only the committee members have an idea of what is in any specific bill and often it's only the subcommittee members who know.

There will be some posturing on the floor by lawmakers who protest the budget is being "railroaded" but that is all it will be — posturing. None of those lawmakers will have made the effort to sit in on either committee as it was working on whatever bill they are interested in.

That would involve a lot of hard work. It's a lot easier to go complain about the energy crisis or busing.

As we see it

Small claims justice protects 'little guy' from unjust 'dues'

Your old landlord claims you damaged the apartment you lived in. You disagree but he won't give you your rent deposit back.

You loaned your lawnmower to a neighbor. Now he refuses to give it back to you.

The garage which repaired your car did a crummy job which had to be redone by a different garage. Now you want your money back.

There is a place to turn to for relief. It's the small claims court, a division of the district courts in outstate Michigan and of the Common Pleas Court in Detroit.

Suits for amounts of up to $300 are handled by the small claims courts and that limit would go to $500 under a bill which has been introduced in the Legislature.

All you need is the name and address of the person or firm you are suing. There is a filing fee, which varies from $7 to $13 depending on the county you live in and the way you have the summons delivered to the person you are suing. The fee is eventually paid by the person who loses the lawsuit.

The big advantage to small claims court is that you don't need a lawyer. In fact, you cannot have a lawyer represent you. The two parties are called before the judge, generally in the relaxed atmosphere of his chambers.

The person filing the action tells why money is owed him or her. The person being sued then tells why he or she doesn't feel the money is owed. Either side can bring witnesses and introduce evidence. Then the judge decides. If the person who loses refuses to pay, then you can have his salary garnished or his bank account attached.

To collect, you need more than just your opinion. You need itemized statements of damages, proof of purchase or whatever.

Many of the cases involve renters who want their security deposit back. Under the new rent regulation law which went into effect last year, the burden is now on the landlord in a contested deposit to go to court.

If the landlord doesn't go to small claims court within 45 days after you have moved out, and if you have contested any notice he sent you within seven days of receiving it, then he must pay back the full deposit.

Auto repair and home repair customers also are frequent users of small claims court if they are dissatisfied with what they paid for.

The decision of the judge is final and cannot be appealed to a higher court, since the whole object of small claims court is to settle arguments over relatively small sums of money legally without having lawyers eat up all or most of the money involved.

It provides the little guy, with a beef against a landlord, merchant or anyone else, a place to resolve that beef legally. And if the judge rules in his favor, he has the weight of the court to back up his victory.

Romulus is 'rosy'

Van Buren district needs your support

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Enterprise-Roman Editor

In last week's editions of the Belleville Enterprise and Romulus Roman we reported on the "rosy" growth future for Romulus, and a critical school election scheduled for today in the Van Buren School District.

Before we touch upon the spirited drive for industrial development in Romulus, let's think of the crucial two mill school vote facing Van Buren district residents.

At 8 o'clock tonight, the polls will close at Van Buren district election centers...and if for some reason you decided "what's my one little vote going to do," please read on.

LAST MARCH a similar two mill request failed by the slim margin of 52 votes, and unless this second attempt at passage makes it—the district will lose more than $100,000 annually.

At the present time, Van Buren's school operating rate sets at 23.65 mills. That amounts to $23.65 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The district's request for two additional mills will be just enough for the district to qualify for maximum state funding.

As we stated editorially last Wednesday, we support the Van Buren request because of its priority nature. The district does not seek educational frills, it merely asks that the citizens of the Van Buren district support minimum state standards.

VAN BUREN school officials should be commended for their past and present spending operations. The district presently ranks 26th out of 35 Wayne County districts—in the all important operating millage spending column.

If you haven't voted in today's vital election, you've got until 8 o'clock to get to your voting precinct.

Every single vote counts. The last election lost by 52 votes because 52 persons thought "what's my one little vote going to do..."

On the subject of a "rosy" industrial future for Romulus, we repeat a quote from John Chihhan, the city's economic developer and planner.

CHIHHAN SAID: "It appears as though industries and some commercial properties are interested in moving into the city. Romulus has a lot going for it..."

Chihhan cited Romulus' access to natural gas, expressways, and the industry-luring Metro Airport as a few examples of his optimistic report.

He also expressed confidence that in the immediate future Romulus would be able to attract a shopping center development to the community—a subject of major discussion in Mayor Terry Troutt's campaign.

Off-year convention may strengthen Dems

It used to be Democrats would get together once every four years for a bloodletting also known as their national convention.

Now, in what some view as an extreme case of political masochism, they have decided to have a non-presidential year convention to argue about the things which divide them and try to form a more cohesive national organization.

The convention, being called a charter conference, will take place in December in Kansas City, Mo.

Each state will be represented by a delegation based on its Democratic vote in 1972 plus all its Democratic members of Congress. Michigan will have 70 delegates, who will be chosen at the August state convention, plus its rapidly growing number of Democratic congressmen.

The convention will last three days and will adopt, in some form or another, a charter to govern the 1976 presidential convention.

"The question is what kind of national party do Democrats want," said Michigan Chairman Morley Winograd. "Right now we have a sort of loose confederation of 50 state parties who come together once every four years. We have to decide whether we want a stronger national party."

The national party already has been strengthened somewhat by the national telethon it held last year and the one it plans for this year. The money raised by the telethon is being shared with the states, meaning they are working closer with the national headquarters.

Whatever happens, it should be interesting. It usually is whenever Democrats have themselves a convention.

It's time for 'lobby' reform Lobbyists have money...and votes

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Editorial Director

Lobbyists are pulling their burning Continentals into a circle for the election-year siege of politicians waving tickets to their own testimonials.

It is the time when a vote on the size of a bread pan or backup lights for snowmobiles comes home to roost.

This is love-hate time for everybody. Legislators make the rafters shudder with denunciations of lobbyists for the folks back home, then tap them outrageously for campaign funds.

REALISTS ON THE SCENE concur that legislators will never make it impossible for a lobbyist to pony up a few bucks for their re-election. Listen to one of the best lobbyists:

"I hope they (legislators) write the most stringent lobby control law in the country — if it will protect us from them, if it will stop their leaning on us with tickets to fundraisers."

"But I know damned well they aren't going to do it."

And that, in two sentences of award-winning brevity, is why election reforms are in trouble in the Michigan legislature. Everything suffers in an election year but the golden goose.

LOBBYISTS SELL their employers' points of view to legislators, in committees, sometimes in restaurants and at other times and in other places never displeasing to legislators.

It is, in itself, not an illegal or immoral occupation. Some of them overtrain, like some political people, and everybody gets a swipe of the tar brush. It happened in the mid-1940s, a grand jury, a few convictions and terrible consequences all around.

Thus it was that the grand jury's special prosecutor, Kim Sigler, rode his white horse into the governor's office in 1946. And in 1947 the legislature enacted a lobby control law, written largely by lobbyists.

THERE HAVE BEEN efforts since that time to strengthen the law, which says that lobbyists must keep financial records but surrender them only to a House-Senate committee created by a two-thirds vote of each chamber.

It would be easier to get a two-thirds vote endorsing poverty or to repeal sunshine.

Former Senator Donald Gilbert, of Saginaw, was denounced all of one Monday night in the 1960s for threatening to strengthen the lobby law.

But not only must lobbyists buy tickets to fundraisers, it's bad form not to show up, and ooh and ahh over a $3 buffet that costs $20 a plate.

Then as the next term begins a legislator is free again to inveigh against the spectre of the lobby, those evil magicians who make the devil theory of government and politics possible.

It doesn't all mean that legislators are evil or that lobbyists buy them. There are honorable men in both professions, not necessarily exceptions.

But it is a system that has grown up in the land, a system that demands reform. It won't come this year and perhaps not in the lifetime of anybody who's around these days.

This situation bears watching.

Verna Mize scores for 'ecology'

By TOM OCHILTREE
Eagle Washington Bureau Chief

A patient, determined lady from Michigan has made the system respond to her will and presumably has saved Lake Superior's "shining big sea water" from further pollution in years to come.

The story of Mrs. Verna Mize's one woman crusade to save the lake she has "loved since childhood" contradicts those cynics, young and old, who claim America's governmental processes no longer respond to the wishes of the people.

Legions of supporters joined Mrs. Mize in her seven year battle, but she was the one who first raised the cry "save Lake Superior" at a time when most people were not even aware that this sparkling body of water was in trouble.

THE BATTLE IS NOT completely over yet," she said in an interview with Panax Newspapers, "but I believe our victory is assured now if all of us who fought for Lake Superior's future keep the pressure on."

The climax to her campaign came the other day when Federal District Judge Miles Lord directed the Reserve Mining Co., to halt the discharge of industrial wastes into Lake Superior.

Reserve which went into production about 20 years ago, had been dumping 67,000 tons of taconite tailings a day into the lake at Silver Bay, Minn.

Government scientists insisted that asbestos fibers contained in this finely ground waste constituted a potential health hazard to thousands of residents of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan living in communities which draw their drinking water from the lake. enough exposure to asbestos fibers can cause cancer, they said.

JUDGE LORD'S decision followed a nine-month trial in federal district court in Minneapolis. It resulted in the immediate closing for a time of the plant at Silver Bay and Reserve's mine located 47 miles inland at Babbitt, Minn.

Subsequently, a three-judge panel of the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted a temporary stay allowing Reserve to continue the extraction of iron ore from taconite rock while appealing the lower court's decision that it must stop polluting Lake Superior. The appeals judges scheduled a full hearing in St. Louis on May 15.

In the clearest possible way this case points up the dilemma which results when a choice has to be made between protecting the environment or protecting jobs.

Judge Lord's order briefly threw 3,100 employees out of work at Silver Bay and Babbitt casting gloom over those communities.

OFFICIALS OF ARMCO and Republic Steel—joint owners of Reserve—have insisted that closing down Reserve's operations will hamper steel production at a particularly critical time in the nation's economy.

For their part, environmentalists have declared that Reserve must change its disposal methods. One suggestion has involved putting the tailings on land.

After Judge Lord's ruling reached the news wires, citizens from all over the United States telephoned Mrs. Mize congratulating her on her victory. The case is a keystone for the whole environmentalist cause.

A federal government employee residing in the Washington metropolitan area, Mrs. Mize grew up along Lake Superior's shore in Houghton County, Mich. The beauty of the lake has stayed with her ever since.

"When I was growing up," she said, "the people who had their summer homes along the shore pumped their drinking water directly from the lake. It was the sweetest, most wonderful water in the world. When I look at what is happening to it now, I feel this is the worst environmental disaster in history."

EVEN IF THERE was no more pollution from now on, it would take several hundred years for Lake Superior completely to flush itself. That thought saddens Mrs. Mize, the soft spoken wife of a retired marine officer.

She is glad, however, that it seems likely that further damage to the lake can be avoided.

"I want the children of this country to inherit a clean lake," she said. "I think it is important also that the young people of this country be shown an example of a case where the government and the system have been responsive."

"This has taken a long time. There have been moments of discouragement. But what has been accomplished has been done without violence—without resort to disorders in the street."

"I am grateful to all the legions of people who have supported this effort. Since the battle is not completely finished yet, their continuing support still is needed."

"I am particularly grateful for the effort the environmental protection agency and the justice department put into this case."

Conservation groups and private citizens lined up with the government lawyers in demanding a halt to the pollution of the lake.

MRS. MIZE ESTIMATED that she wrote more than 8,000 letters to federal state and local officials as well as to newsmen and environmentalists.

Her one major disappointment, she said, was "the lack of support from some members of Congress who should have helped but didn't."

How to store winter boots

Clean and store winter boots properly this spring to keep them in good condition for next winter, say extension clothing specialists at Michigan State University.

"To wash vinyl boots, just use soap or detergent and suds the outside," the specialists explain. "If the boots have fleece linings, clean these with the crevice tool attachment of your vacuum cleaner. Store vinyl boots in plastic bags. Leather boots require a little more care before storing. Start by polishing them with a good paste or cream polish, and then wrap them in soft cloth or tissue paper. Don't store leather boots in plastic bags because the air can't get to the leather.

To help leather boots keep their shape over the summer months, the specialists suggest inserting shoe trees and stuffing the shaft of the boot with paper.

Salad booster

There are many tempting ways to utilize leftover beef. In the summer, especially, it's smart to perk up a salad with it. This is an efficient way to provide a nutritious meal because the leftover beef contains the same amount of high quality protein and other important nutrients as when first prepared. Cut the cooked beef in julienne strips for salad appeal.

April Klein married in Missouri church

Mr. and Mrs. Neal H. Gehring have taken up residence in Denver Colo., following an early spring wedding in Plattsburg, Mo. Mrs. Gehring is the former April Joy Klein of Belleville.

In the April 6 ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Plattsburg, Miss Klein exchanged wedding vows with Gehring. The Rev. Robert Quinn conducted the 3 p.m. nuptials.

Linda Winchester, soloist for the occasion, sang "If" and "The Wedding Song."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Klein of Belleville, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore for her wedding day a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta. Venice lace accented the V neckline, long fitted sleeves and empire waistline. A deep flounce bordered the edge of the skirt and continued around the chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught to a cap of imported silk embellished with seed pearls, crystals and lace. Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Susan Klein of Belleville, served as maid of honor with Jeanne McCoy of Blue Springs, Mo. and Nancy Davis of Atlanta, Ga., filling the roles of bridesmaids. Laura Winchester of Weatherby Lake, Mo. was flowergirl.

All four attendants wore pale green dotted swiss frocks and matching garden hats and carried bouquets of yellow daisies and baby's breath.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gehring of Arapahoe, Neb., asked Paul Olberding of Omaha, Neb. to be best man. Groomsmen were Wayne Young of Omaha, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Richard Barrick of Springfield, Mo. Ushers were Gerald Gehring of Elwood, Neb.; Gary Schievelbein of Arapahoe, Neb. and Scott Stevens of Plattsburg, Mo., brother of the bride. Evitts-Horvath wed

Trenton church site of nuptial ceremony

The First United Methodist Church of Trenton was reserved April 6 for the single ring ceremony which united Renee Ann Horvath and John William Evitts in holy matrimony.

The evening nuptials were solemnized by The Rev. Robert Hudgins.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horvath of 24418 Otter Rd., New Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Evitts of 38915 Wade St., Romulus, are parents of the young couple.

The bride walked to the sanctuary with her mother and father who gave her in marriage. The bridegroom's parents, in turn, escorted him to his place at the altar.

A COLONIAL BOUQUET of white sweetheart roses, fraisia, daisies and baby's breath complimented the bride's Chantilly lace and silk gown. Designed with a Sabrina neckline, the little fitted bodice featured bishop sleeves cuffed in lace. A detachable chapel train trimmed in Chantilly lace added back interest to the dress.

Completing the bride's ensemble was an illusion veil edged in lace which drifted to chapel length.

Preceding the bride up the aisle were her maid of honor, Karen Hardt of New Boston, who was gowned in pink. Her six bridesmaids in blue were Rhonda Knope, a cousin from New Boston; Kathy Polgar, a cousin from Ohio; Pam Trudo and Mrs. Collen Sitz, both of New Boston; Mrs. Diane Strackan of Westland; and Lynda Hamilton of Belleville.

Identically made, the attendants peasant-style frocks had sheer yoke inserts, puffed sleeves, ruffled necklines, and apron effects on the skirts. Their bow headpieces were edged with matching veils and they carried white lace fans topped with blue and pink miniature carnations and white pinocchio mums.

TOM EVITTS of Romulus was his brother's best man. Others on the esquire side were Ron Horvath of New Boston, the bride's brother; Kirk Thomson, Jim McBride, Mick McMann, and Bo Player, all of Romulus; and Bruce Strackan of Westland.

At the reception, which followed in The Oak Club of Wyandotte, the bride's mother greeted the 400 guests in a gown of lilac nylon and chiffon with a corsage of matching orchids pinned to the shoulder. The bridegroom's mother donned a nile green chiffon gown with a matching lace jacket. Her corsage was comprised of yellow cymbidium orchids.

A 1973 graduate of Huron High School, the new Mrs. Evitts is employed by Uniroyal in Westland. Her husband, a 1972 alumnus of Romulus High School, is an employe of De Vilbiss Co., in Romulus.

Sportsmen organize against handgun ban plan

By WESTHORP
Enterprise Roman
Lansing Bureau

A small army of hunters and sport shooters is mobilizing to fight Detroit Police Commissioner Philip G. Tannian's efforts to ban private handgun ownership in Michigan.

People are being recruited and money raised for a massive "Save Your Guns" campaign to counter the Detroit Police Commissioner's efforts.

Tannian, a former FBI agent, is leading a petition drive for a statewide referendum on a constitutional amendment which would outlaw possession of pistols, except by law enforcement agencies and registered shooting clubs.

TANNIAN feels that a handgun ban is a necessary first step in reducing the skyrocketing number of homicides and other crimes which are committed with a pistol.

Hunters and gun buffs, who attended a recent "Save Your Guns" dinner in Lansing, however, felt that it would be a step in the wrong direction. More than 1,000 firearms enthusiasts paid $15 each to cheer the leaders in the state and national anti-gun control movement.

For more than two hours, through a full-course meal, the sportsmen were warned that unless they took some action, Tannian's efforts could lead to the eventual confiscation of all firearms.

THE PARADE of anti-gun control speakers included: State Police Director Col. John Plants; State Natural Resources Director A. Gene Gazlay; State Appeals Court Judge Louis D. McGregor and Carl Parsell, the executive director of the Police Officers Association of Michigan.

And the keynote for the evening was U.S. Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Trenton), a champion of firearms enthusiasts and an active supporter and member of the National Rifle Association (NRA).

The gist of each speaker's pitch was that there isn't a need for more laws to reduce crime. What's needed, they said, was enforcement of the present laws.

They argued that the government would be taking away the guns from the law abiding citizens, while the criminal still would be armed. THE LANSING dinner was just the start of the state "Save Your Guns" movement, according to Thomas Washington, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) that sponsored the dinner.

Each person at the Lansing dinner was asked to sign a pledge card, noting what part he or she would play in the campaign; to write letters to editors, legislators, congressmen; to distribute literature, to speak at local meetings and, to make phone calls.

According to Washington, these names will be fed into a computer where they will be stored and categorized. So, if a certain group needs a speaker, the MUCC can check the computer and supply the organization with a tailor-made program.

The $20,000 that was raided at the dinner will also be used for newspaper ads and radio and television time, Washington said.

"THE ADS WILL tell the people what the existing handgun laws are and why they aren't being enforced," he said. With this cadre of people we want to put together and with the ads, Washington said he is "optimistic that the group can put on a pretty good fight."

- reduce the social security payroll tax for low and middle-income taxpayers;
- establish a federal agency to deal with the problem of homes abandoned through foreclosure by federal agencies;
- provide health care for the elderly in their own homes, rather than nursing homes;
- STUDY the growing problem of foreign investment in the United States, and Help make American-made automobiles more competitive, price-wise, in world markets by setting low import levels for countries which have excessive duties on American cars.

VFW cancels parade

The annual Memorial Day parade sponsored by VFW Post 4434 of Belleville will not be held this year, according to Jerry Maton, a VFW official and parade chairman.

The VFW Post, however, will conduct Memorial Day services at 1 p.m. May 27 at the city's veteran's memorial in front of the old Van Buren Township Hall, Roys and Main streets. The ceremony will be followed by a grave site service at Hillside Cemetery near the Denton Road Bridge.

The annual VFW parade had been scheduled for 1 p.m. that day, but was cancelled because Van Buren Township parade scheduled to coincide with the grand opening of the new Van Buren Park on Memorial Day, Maton said. Maton said the VFW's annual poppy sale will be May 16-18.

Map list of lakes available

As a service to anglers in the state, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs has reprinted its index, "Michigan Mapped Lakes."

The index not only has a guide to more than 2,500 hydrographic maps of inland lakes in Michigan, but there also is information on campgrounds, boat launching sites and lakes and ponds planted with trout.

To obtain a copy, send $1 to: Michigan Mapped Lakes, P.O. Box 2235, Lansing 48911.

Coed is student architect

A Belleville coed is among a group of 25 women studying architecture or landscape architecture at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

Cindy D. Ferrier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Ferrier of 43415 I-94 Expressway, is a sophomore in the College of Architecture and Planning at the university.

She is a graduate of Belleville High School.

Company reports earnings

Earl Keim Realty reports its 1974 first quarter volume at $30,548,000. Keim is comprised of nine companies operating 23 offices, including Western Wayne County locations.

Three new officers were opened in April including one in Birmingham, Howell and Sterling Heights.

NATURAL BEAUTY—Weeds aren't a welcome sight on most Western Wayne County lawns, but throughout William P. Holliday Park, the variety of weeds and wildflowers are part of its natural beauty.

With the budding of trees and plants throughout the natural preserve, located off Newburgh Road in Westland, the park's wild state has become dotted with a wide selection of flowers.

Beautiful lawns need regularity of treatment

To have a good lawn and home landscape requires a desire for beautiful surroundings. Without this desire there is little likelihood of success, because getting and keeping high-quality turf means a willingness to care for it, feed it regularly and mow and water properly, according to the Fertilizer Institute.

Well-landscaped grounds with healthy green turf means added home value, as well as satisfaction.

DEVELOPMENTS in lawn and ornamental varieties increasingly have boasted vigor and disease resistance while "specialty" fertilizer products have been formulated to fit the requirements of virtually any plant, soil type and climate. Fertilizers have been capulized for precise feedings of house plants, coated for timed soil release, and placed in solution for rapid liquid or foliar feeding.

In short, there are many different, specially formulated fertilizers on today's lawn and garden market that will result in a more beautiful landscape for any home.

The product of any reputable fertilizer manufacturer will be accompanied by directions on how to use the material for best results. Directions are usually given as to amount to apply and how often.

For lawns, the instructions almost always are in terms of pounds of the fertilizer material to use per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Or, if the fertilizer is applied as a liquid, directions will tell the amount to use per gallon of water.

TODAY MANY lawn and garden fertilizers are marketed in combination with an herbicide, insecticide or fungicide. For these products, instructions for use are based on correct amounts of material needed for full plant protection, as well as that needed to maintain healthy growth. Such combination products are a convenience to the home owner and present a safe and effective way of application with minimum chance of home owner error.

In many instances, your local county extension office, a branch of the state agricultural university and U.S. Department of Agriculture, have agents with special training in horticulture.

Plants add beauty to home

The greenness and beauty of the out-of-doors can be brought indoors simply by nurturing house plants. The growing of a successful plant adds beauty to the home or apartment decor and pride to its raiser.

And anytime the right time to grow plants indoors or start a terrarium. There's no worry about freezing temperatures causing frost or other climatic changes.

The home or apartment's relatively constant temperature provides the perfect climate for thriving plants. And a simple way to avoid the problem of low humidity is to grow plants in a controlled environment called a terrarium or bottle garden.

THE BOTTLE garden will flourish in any clear glass or plastic container - like a wine or distilled water jar or an oversized brandy snifter.

With proper preparation and plant choices, this garden is nearly maintenance-free.

Whether a terrarium or a plain pot is used for the plant, there are a number of ways to obtain that greenery. Seeds are the most inexpensive way to produce a large number of plants. However, seeds do take slightly longer to produce mature plants.

Of course, young plants can be bought at a greenhouse, but the joy of knowing your thriving plant was begun through your loving care is worth the wait for seeds to mature.

SEEDS CAN be grown in sand, sphagnum moss, peat moss, vermiculite, perlite or soil. The seed medium should be well drained and sterilized to kill weed seeds, insects and disease-causing organisms.

To sterilize, moisten the medium with water, bring the soil temperature to 180 degrees and bake in the oven for 1/2 hour. After the soil has cooled fill the container.

The container should be three inches deep or less and have drainage holes. Moisten the soil by placing it in a pan of water and then spread the seeds uniformly, according to horticulturists at Michigan State University.

PERFECT FOR THE HOME — The "Howea belmoreana," commonly called the Kentia Palm, is a perfect plant choice for indoor growing. Western Wayne County homeowners or apartment dwellers will find that this plant will tolerate the reduced light and dry atmosphere found in most dwellings.

Many plants flourish in home, apartment

There are many types of plants that are suitable for growing in the home. Western Wayne County residents will find that the "Howea belmoreana," commonly called the Kentia Palm, the "Beloperone guttata," commonly known as the "shrimp plant," and the more than 1,200 species of begonias flourish in the home or apartment.

The "Howea belmoreana" is a solitary palm which grows to 25 feet. Its leaves are erect and arching downwards with slender points. The stalks usually are reddish and the fruit is yellow green.

This palm grows best in moderate temperatures — 50 to 55 degrees at night, rising to 70 degrees during the day, according to Michigan State University (MSU) horticulturists.

IT WILL tolerate the reduced light and dry atmosphere found in most homes. Filtered or diffused sunlight is required.

Place the plant near an east window during the summer and a south window during the winter. Shade it from direct sun when near a south window.

Keep the soil evenly moist but not constantly wet. The roots will rot if the soil is kept too wet.

The "shrimp plant" adds a bit of springtime to the home year round because of its continuous blooming and reddish-brown bracts that resemble a shrimp.

IT IS AN ornate plant, originally from Mexico, growing from one to three feet high. Soft, wiry stems carry the hairy leaves. The white flowers peek out from beneath the reddish-brown bracts.

The plant needs fresh air and good light for healthy growth. MSU horticulturists suggest:

—watering thoroughly and allowing it to become moderately dry between waterings;

—ranging temperatures between 50 degrees at night and 70 degrees on a sunny day.

There are many species of begonias and countless hybrids. Some are tropical flowering herbs, some succulent plants and all have either fibrous, rhizomatous or tuberous roots. The foliage almost always is lopsided and the flowers irregular.

Fibrous-rooted begonias include the angel wing, hairy and wax begonias. They generally have succulent stems and flower continuously. The flowers are white, pink or scarlet.

Perennial plants are energy savers

A profusion of color and beauty, from spring through autumn, with plenty of blooms for indoor arrangements or table decorations—these are the rewards in store when you add perennials to gardening plans. Perennials keep paying off year after year without replanting, and now is the time to get started.

The choice is wide as to colors, sizes, blooming times, location and landscape layout.

Planning your perennial plantings is a fine opportunity to exercise your own creative flair. Your garden center or mail-order nurseryman can advise you about the right selections for particular conditions of sunlight, soil, drainage, and flowering seasons.

As a general rule, the best results will be achieved by transplanting perennials you select from a reliable source and a few gardening suggestions have been provided by the American Association of Nurserymen.

The first step is to prepare the soil by spreading organic fertilizer generously, about two inches deep, over the planting area. Work the material into the top eight inches of soil, then rake the area evenly.

Plant the flowers about 12 to 18 inches apart to give them maximum room for healthy growth. The hole prepared for each plant should be about twice the width and depth of the roots.

Place the plants in the holes, making sure the stem parts are standing up straight. Pack the soil firmly around them, then water the planting area thoroughly.

Ford juggles to battle sales slumps

By JIM CARRAVALLAH

The Ford Motor Co. continued juggling schedules to battle slumping sales and parts shortages during the past week.

It announced plans to idle 6,400 workers, including some at the Wixom Assembly Plant, the Livonia Parts Warehouse, the Livonia Transmission Plant, the Utica Trim Plant and the Dearborn Stamping Plant.

The automaker also announced plans to recall 610 workers at the Dearborn Casting Plant and at parts plants in Buffalo and Green Island, N.Y., and Chicago, Ill.

HAPPY TOOTLERS — Performing is enjoyable for the entertainer as well as the audience if one judges by the expressions on the faces of flutist Margaret Aalbertsberg, (top left), and clarinetist Dora Gilbert. They performed as a duet at a meeting of the Mt. Pleasant Elementary School PTA in which talented youngsters performed under the direction of Kathlyn Maldegen. A bit more intent on the music are saxophonists Jose Antolin (bottom left), and Roy Dooley, were among those chosen in a talent audition held at the school earlier. The students entertained their schoolmates on April 23.

Auto roundup

Production drop

The announcements on shifting of schedules came as the industry reported a drop in production from the week of April 22.

Last week, the automakers built 152,441 automobiles, compared to a 1974 high of 171,771 automobiles during the previous week.

The slump in the week-to-week manufacturing schedules was attributed to Ford parts problems and a strike at a General Motors Corp. plant last week.

Production for the year was down 31.5 per cent, according to the Automotive News, the industry's trade journal.

Even when the manufacturers made a high of 171,771 cars during the week of April 21 through 27, the totals were down from a record 210,787 automobiles manufactured during the same week in 1973.

To date, auto firms have built 2,550,667 cars, compared to 3,722,616 during the same period in 1973.

Yet, there was a glimmer of hope for the industry, when April production reached 677,783 — the highest production of any month in 1974, and slightly higher than anticipated at the beginning of the month.

Only American Motors Corp. continued to increase its year-to-date production above 1973 levels by building 137,442 cars to date in 1974 compared to 129,500 units to date in 1973.

Earnings slumps

Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors reported slumps in earnings last week, with Chrysler reporting a 98 per cent drop in profits in the first quarter of 1974.

The nation's third largest automaker reported net earnings of $1.6 million on sales of $2.7 billion worldwide in first quarter 1974 report.

The totals compared to earnings of $89.8 million on sales of $2.9 billion during the first quarter of 1973.

General Motors reported earnings of $120 million for its lowest first quarter return since 1948.

The nation's largest automaker said profits plummeted 85 per cent from its first quarter 1973 earnings.

Ford reported a 65.8 per cent drop in earnings from 1973 totals, reporting earnings of $123.6 million compared to earnings of $360.7 million during the first quarter of 1973.

AMC wps capacity

American Motors, which has fared the best in the economy crisis of the automobile industry to date, announced plans for a new long-range program to increase its small-car production capacity.

William V. Luneberg, president and chief operating officer of the company, said American Motors has acquired a million-square-foot plant in South Charleston, W.Va., to increase its stamping capacity.

"This plant will produce major automotive stampings for 1975 models. The move will begin with the installation of presses in the plant within the next few weeks," said Luneberg in announcing the acquisition.

Ford 'fights'

Ford attempted to fight back from its problems by increasing operations at its Lima, O., engine plant. The company began double shifting the plant's four-cylinder economy engine line

Van Buren posts construction rise

Building activities in Van Buren Township continued its upward trend during April, according to a monthly report by the building department.

The department issued 36 building permits for an estimated $366,147.73 in construction. The amount of fees collected was $1,289. Commercial building permits represented $132,960 in construction.

The department also issued 16 permits other than building on which fees of $148.75 was collected.

In March there were 42 building permits issued for a construction valuation of $214,372.

The electrical division of the building department issued 37 permits and collected $1,835 in fees in April. The heating division issued 25 permits and collected $1,554 in fees. The plumbing division issued 24 permits and collected $493.50 in fees.

in an effort to increase the output of the 2.3 liter engines for the company's Pinto and Mustang II models.

The increase in production will permit the recall of 150 employees at the plant.

Prices to drop

General Motors President Edward N. Cole predicted last week that prices will fall with the ending of Phase IV economic controls at the end of April.

Cole said lifting the controls April 30 would allow private industry to return "to a more normal market functioning of supply and demand."

"I think this will stimulate production and competition and, with limited government direction, reduce prices," he said.

Careers are topic of meet

All area youths are invited to this year's seminar on careers, sponsored by the Metropolitan Detroit Medical Seminar Committee.

Scheduled for Saturday at the Detroit Medical Center, the third annual meeting will be on the topic of "The Youth Renaissance: Getting it Together."

Keynote speaker at the seminar will be Scott Jacoby, a 17-year-old professional actor who recently won an Emmy Award for his role on an "ABC Movie of the Week."

Information on the seminar can be obtained by calling John G. Roundtree II at 728-3653.

regular prizes of more than $1 million.

The unique feature of this promotion is the special drawing on June 6, in which all May tickets which did not win a prize are eligible. The special "loser's" drawing will determine an estimated 180 winners of $1,000 each.

Only tickets dated May 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30 which did not win a prize qualify for the special June 6 drawing.

Three bonus numbers will be drawn June 6 and an eligible May losing ticket matching two of the three bonus numbers will win $1,000.

Each weekly drawing in May also features a bonus drawing with an estimated 36 winners per week collecting $500 each. Again, a ticket for each bonus drawing must match two of the three bonus numbers drawn that week to win a bonus prize.

The "loser's" feature of this bonus requires ticket buyers to hang on to all their May tickets until June 6, when the special "loser's" drawing will be held.

County executive plan to face November vote

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will place a proposal for an elected county executive before the voters in the November general election rather than the Aug. 6 primary.

Board members voted 15-7 to approve that approach as recommended by the General Government Committee. Later adoption of a resolution actually placing the matter on the ballot will be required.

The committee advised that the proposal go on the later ballot in order to provide time for the Legislature to amend portions of the pertinent state act.

The committee expressed belief that pending and anticipated amendments to Act 139 of 1973 "will result in a proposal which will be acceptable and meet the objections voice at the committee's public hearing of April 17."

At the hearing, representatives of the United Auto Workers Union, the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO, a Detroit citizens group and Wayne County elected officials other than commissioners criticized the act as vague, confusing and contradictory.

One pending amendment would permit the placing of the question of whether the executive office should be created on the ballot without a concurrent primary election for the post.

That would make it possible to create the post this year, then fill it in the next regular county-wide elections in 1976. This would eliminate the need for a later special election if the proposal were approved in November.

New Boston teacher takes New Zealand post

By DALE GOWING
Of The Enterprise-Roman Staff

A New Boston elementary school teacher, Lori Cutler, is changing jobs in August, but it will be a bit more than just shuffling grade levels within the Huron School District.

The second grade instructor at Hannan Road Elementary School is taking a year's leave of absence to teach a similar grade level in her native country of New Zealand. She hopes the experience she gains "can be useful to my teaching here."

Hospitals' patients include residents

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

HAROLD REDISKE, HAROLD REDISKE, JR. — DIRECTORS

We hear a lot these days about special groups wanting and sometimes demanding special rights...There is only one special group we can think of that is really entitled to special rights. But that group - with few exceptions - ever ask or expect special favors.

This special group includes the poor and the rich. They are loving, thoughtful, considerate. They are seen everywhere. Though some are "deprived", they rarely ask things for themselves. They think of others ahead of themselves. When something needs to be done, they are the first to be called on. In emergencies, they are the first to take over. As individuals, they are the busiest, most active and the most important people in the world. If it were not for them, NONE of us would be here...

We honor them individually on Mother's Day - the mothers everywhere!

"I'm extending my educational experience by teaching standard two in New Zealand, and I hope to be able to relate the programs here to the ones I'll be teaching there," said the 28-year-old teacher.

MISS CUTLER moved with her family to the United States when she was nine months old. She accepted the out-of-the-ordinary job opportunity when she was visiting the country with her mother in December and January.

"I had thought about it before," she said. "They need teachers there. They have a teacher exchange program, but I'm not in it."

Miss Cutler was born in the town of Rawanee. Her mother is a native New Zealander, but her father was an American soldier, stationed there. Her aunt, uncle and grandfather still live there.

Miss Cutler took her mother to their homeland during the winter for the first time in 28 years.

A graduate of Graceland College in Lamoni, Iowa, and Eastern Michigan University

(EMU), the Northville resident has taught in the Huron district for seven years — the first two years at the old New Boston Elementary School and the past five at Hannan Road Elementary School. She will receive her masters degree this summer from EMU before leaving for New Zealand in mid-August.

THE HURON SCHOOL year ends June 13. She will begin her new duties in the city of Auckland on Sept. 3, actually coming in at the tail end of winter, during the third term of the school year, which begins Feb. 1. She will teach there until August, 1975, then return to New Boston to resume her class duties.

Miss Cutler's standard two class in New Zealand will be comparable to the second grade here, she said. Her students will be seven- and eight-year-olds.

"I hope to gain on the cultural level from the year," she said. "New Zealand is a wonderful, gorgeous place. There is a lower standard of living there than here. Costs are higher, so the people live conservatively."

"For example, gasoline is scarce and expensive, and a lot of drivers there will turn off their engines while waiting at a light to save gas."

"THEY ALSO HAVE an energy crisis due to a shortage of electricity, but other than that, they are almost totally self-sufficient."

She said she will be paid an $8,000 salary in New Zealand money, which is worth about $11,000 here.

"Their dollar is worth about $1.44 in our money," she said.

Panax reports quarterly earnings

Panax Corp. said that while net revenues for the first quarter of 1974 increased when compared with the comparable 1973 span, the newspaper publishing and printing firm lost five cents per share for the period.

Panax, which also named a new corporate management team, reported revenues of $6.4 million, compared with $5.5 million in the first three months of 1973.

The firm said it lost $60,124, compared with profits of $93,066 in 1973's first quarter. However, the 1973's figures included a $104,282 gain on investment, and Panax said there was "no corresponding gain" for the first quarter of this year. Panax also listed an increase of nearly $1 million in production, selling and administration expenses over the 1973 period.

A quarterly dividend of .025 cents per share was declared, compared with a 10 cent per share distribution in all of 1973. Panax said net earnings were eight cents per share in 1973.

John P. McGoff, Panax president, said four executives were elected group vice-presidents by the Panax board.

VA seeks veteran with medical training for jobs

The Veterans Health Care Expansion Act of 1973 has spurred added Veterans Administration (VA) emphasis on acquainting medically trained veterans and soon-to-be discharged military members with job opportunities in VA.

The new law, enacted last September, upgrades medical care of hospitalized members and outpatient treatment by granting the VA flexibility in delivering the appropriate type of care in each case.

"The long record of outstanding service provided by VA hospitals is an impressive one." President Nixon said at the signing of the bill into law.

"This year more than one million patients will be cared for in VA hospitals, the highest number in history. The government intends to maintain the high standards which characterized such care."

THE LAW grants the administrator of veterans affairs, Donald E. Johnson, with the authority to carry out a major program for the recruitment, training and employment of veterans with military medical specialties.

Noting that the VA leads all federal agencies in making veterans' readjustment appointments, Johnson said the new emphasis "will enable VA to maintain and improve its position of leadership."

"VA's record of employing veterans, especially Vietnam veterans, is gratifying to me,"

Johnson added. "More than 75 per cent of VA's male employees are veterans. Almost 11 per cent are Vietnam veterans."

VA helps veterans transition into 87 different medical job categories. More than 6,000 Vietnam veterans, including some 1,200 women, are employed in VA medical and allied health occupations.

Firm builds electric 'carts'

Postal patrons in the City of Wayne may find their mail delivered in tiny electric-powered vans made in their own city in the future as the U.S. Postal Service prepares to try out a 350-vehicle fleet.

Although the electric-powered vehicles are made by the Wayne-based A.M. General Corporation, Wayne Postmaster William Stottmeyer said he is not sure whether the city will receive any to try.

The light delivery trucks, to be manufactured in Wayne, carry a 500-pound load and have a top range of 33 miles per hour, a spokesman from the postal service said. The vehicles can travel more than 20 miles without recharging and can make more than 300 start-stops during a five-hour period with all lights and accessories on without losing power.

The pilot model will be available within four months with the regular vehicles delivered within a year, the spokesman said.

The purchase of the electric vehicles was prompted by severe pollution problems caused by the internal combustion engine on regular postal delivery vehicles.

Three hundred vehicles will be sent to the Los Angeles-San Bernardino area to help alleviate smog problems while the remaining vehicles will be sent to Savannah, Ga.; Cherry Point, N.J., and Long Island, N.Y., to gather test data on their effectiveness in various weather conditions.

The purchase of the 350 vehicles marks the beginning of adoption of electric-powered vehicles into the Post Office fleet. The service has been testing 30 delivery being made to purchase 1,000 more electric trucks with an additional 5,000 planned for fiscal 1976.

CONTEST RESULTS — Students at South Junior High School recently competed in a contest sponsored by the Care-Free Sugarless Gum Co. Students wrote the name of the gum on three-by-five-inch slips of paper and sent them to the company in an effort to collect one of 12 prizes. The grand prize students hope to win is $1,000, which will be used for library equipment at the school.

Classes require instructor

Building trades classes at Romulus High School have the sanction of the Romulus Board of Education to build a house as a class project, but now they need a lot.

The project is planned for next September, according to Paul Lammers, building trades instructor at the high school.

"But there's a lot to be done before we get into the actual building, such as choosing a plan," he said.

The class is hoping to purchase a lot that has utilities installed and at a reasonable price. Zoning and proximity to the school also are factors to be considered in the purchase, Lammers added.

The services of a licensed building contractor to serve as expert instructor also are needed for the building classes, which include some 24 students working in two three-hour classes.

Persons interested in selling a lot or in instructing the classes should contact Lammers at the school at 941-2170.

Tiger bats silenced Belleville blanked by Plymouth, 2-0

Can you blame Belleville baseball Coach Vitold Kaminski if he's wondering where his hitters have gone? The Tiger bats were silenced again Monday night, this time by Plymouth pitcher Tom Willette who blanked his Suburban 8 Conference rivals 2-0.

It was Belleville's fifth league loss in six starts while the Rocks stand on a 4-1 record.

WILLETTE gave up a pair of singles to Joe Stillwagon who broke up the Rock pitcher's hopes of a no-hitter in the fifth. Bill Dudley got a bunt single in the sixth, the only other Tiger hit.

The Plymouth hurler fanned 12 and walked one in padding his personal record on the season to 6-1.

Gerard Memering also went the distance for Belleville. He was tagged for five hits, struck out five and walked none.

Plymouth got to the Tiger pitcher for all the runs it needed in the fourth when Mark Stevens lead off with a single, was sacrificed to second by Don Bidwell.

Memering appeared to be out of the jam when he got the next two batters, however, Jeff Waller singled to drive in Stevens and Wallers scored on a double by Garry Hamlin.

A rainout last week enabled Belleville High's varsity baseball team to come out of a three-game set with two victories — but the Tigers are still searching for their second Suburban Eight League triumph.

Trenton blanked the Tigers, 4-0, Tuesday behind the one-hit pitching of Kent Livornois, then Belleville dumped Romulus 7-0 (see additional story for details) and edged Wyandotte, 4-2. A scheduled league contest with tough Plymouth Salem was rained out Friday.

The two victories and a loss hiked the Tiger overall record to 2-4 but kept them at 1-3 in league play.

Kevin Bara absorbed the loss to Trenton, and along with Dan Mattson allowed Trenton seven hits. The downriver hosts scored once in the third and fourth frames and twice in the fifth as Belleville couldn't mount any threats. Junior Mike Stanley collected Belleville's only hit off Livornois.

Bara improved his record to 2-3 with a three-hitter against Wyandotte. He also helped his cause with a pair of singles. Belleville notched two runs in the second when Joe Stillwagon and Bara singled and Gary Adkins brought them home with a base hit. A pair of walks and an outfield error accounted for Belleville's final two runs in the sixth.

Wyandotte scored both unearned runs in the first.

Teacher gets students on the ice

By TOM MOORADIAN

When private enterprise can't produce or market a product, then governments should step in, and when schools don't have the monies available to field teams, then ambitious teachers will.

That apparently is the way the Romulus High Hockey Club got off the drawing boards and was made a reality.

"The school couldn't find the budget for that sort of expenditure," explains Doug Hoffman, an auto shop teacher at the high school, "so we decided to go it alone."

HOFFMAN SAID he put a notice on the bulletin board about the new hockey club and expected about five or six persons to show up for the organizational meeting.

"Would you believe that there were more than 40 persons who came to that meeting? That gave me enough confidence to start the wheels in motion."

Hoffman teamed up with Dan Campbell, another teacher, to provide the coaching. The players were broken down into two groups, the 15 and 16 year olds played in the midjet division while the 17-19 were in the junior category.

There was one problem, though - money.

Romulus '9' continues skids

Eagles drop 4 straight

Last week proved disastrous for Romulus High's varsity baseball team.

Entering the week with four victories in their last five games tucked away under their belts, the Eagles were stunned by Belleville, 7-0, Westland John Glenn, 7-2, and Lincoln Park, 10-4, to suddenly lower their record to 4-8.

"I just can't understand it," said Coach Bill Cuhran. "The kids were really fired up after taking four of their last five, then it all fell through. We let a couple of pop flies drop in and that seemed to drain everything from us."

CUHRAN HAD been earlier upset by the slow-awakening of his slumbering bats to accompany Romulus' good pitching, but now he claims that pattern is reversing itself. "Now the hitting is coming around but the pitching is falling off," he said.

Kurt Lenderman lost both starts he made against Belleville and Lincoln Park. He went six innings and gave up all seven runs and 10 of Belleville's 11 hits. Lee Stillner took the win for the Tigers, holding Romulus to six hits and stranding eight Eagle runners on base.

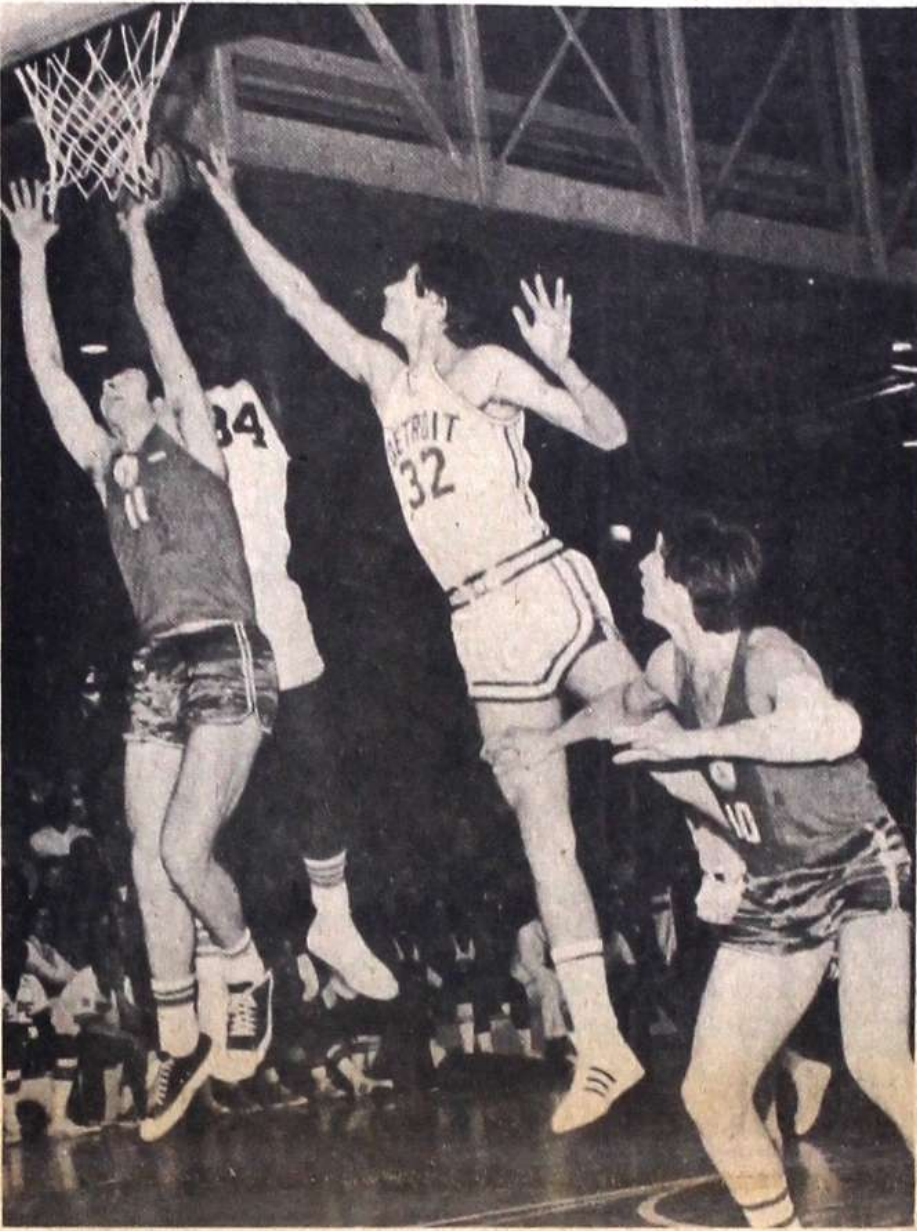

Belleville scored three times in the second and four in the sixth as Romulus couldn't make good on any threats.

Rick Britz suffered the loss to John Glenn and only survived three innings, giving up four runs. Glenn totaled five hits and Romulus just three.

BESIDES THEIR four early runs, the Rockets tallied once in the fifth and twice more in the sixth. Romulus pushed across its pair in the final inning, on a bases-loaded single by Duane Marshhiks.

Lenderman was roughed up again by Lincoln Park, as the hosts scored one in the first, three in the third then six more in the fifth after Lenderman had exited. Romulus had battled with two runs in the first and two more in the third but couldn't hang on.

Jerry Goodman and Roy Hollis had two hits each for Romulus. Cuhran labeled Goodman his "most consistent hitter" with a .280 average. Mike Neilson leads the team in batting with a .380 mark.

'RED HOT' — Trying to cool the hot hands of Soviet Union's Vasily Fedorinov (11) is Livonia Franklin's Kevin Kaseta (32) and Southeastern's Cyron Mann who manage to block this shot. The visiting USSR Junior Basketball team held a narrow four point halftime edge over the Detroit Metropolitan All-Star team which rallied to win the international confrontation 108-98 in a game played before a standing room only crowd estimated at 3,000 at the University of Detroit High. Kaseta and Romulus' Johnny Long represented the area in the All-Stars lineup.

Tigers trim Trenton, 72-51

Belleville High's varsity track team is still below the 500 level in the win-loss column, but it would be hard to detect from the buoyant attitude of the Tiger runners and their coach, Bob Boudreau.

"This is the most meets we've won in three years," said Boudreau of Belleville's victories in five outings. "The last two seasons we won just one meet, and this year we should even win two more."

Those next two victories anticipated for the Tigers by Boudreau could come at the expense of Suburban Eight League foes Plymouth Salem and Allen Park.

Their first two were taken courtesy of Detroit Redford and league rival Trenton last week to snap a winless skein. Tuesday Belleville edged Redford, 61-57, thanks to a disqualification in the 440 relay, and whipped Trenton, 72-51 Thursday. The Tigers are 2-3 overall and 1-3 in the league.

Boudreau claimed his charges are coming of age and should be in peak form by May 29—the date of the league meet at Redford Union. "That's perfect timing for us," he said. "We've got a lot more strength this year in our field events and we have a lot of good young people really coming on fast."

In the Redford meet, both schools' 440 relay teams were disqualified, but it was a crushing blow to Redford because they were winning the race. That opened the door to Belleville's victory.

Against Trenton, Belleville captured all but five of the first places, with Gary Van Buhler stealing the limelight. Van Buhler won the high jump, high hurdles, and low hurdles along with anchoring the victorious mile relay squad.

Robichaud tramples Romulus

Romulus High's varsity trackmen—all seven of them—didn't stand much of a chance last week against Dearborn Heights Robichaud, but they did manage to record a pair of first places.

Ed Abbott heaved the shot 42-feet-2 and Emory Long leaped 18'8" in the long jump for the Eagles' only wins. For the record, Romulus lost again, 93-29, its fourth in a row.

Plagued by a lack of runners, Coach Jesse Merriweather has had to field a skeleton team at most meets. The Eagles traveled to the Ecorse Relays Saturday and managed only to place in several heats, never even gaining the finals.

Against Robichaud, The Eagles notched four second places to accompany their two firsts.

"LAST YEAR WE played out of the Inkster Hockey League and the recreation department supplied us with the jerseys," explained Hoffman, "this year, though, we have become affiliated with the newly organized Romulus Hockey Association and right now we will have to raise our own money."

Hoffman said the organization plans a series of fund-raising projects which include car washes, candy sales and newspaper drives.

"In fact, we even had a student-faculty hockey game," said Hoffman, "and a crowd of 125 fans showed up. That helped us to realize a small profit and even pay for our ice time."

The students taught the teachers a lesson, 8-4.

Hoffman, who graduated from Detroit Cady, got hooked on hockey when he was at Eastern Michigan University where he competed in the intramural program.

"BASKETBALL IS THE big thing at this school," said the 23-year-old teacher, "and we feel that there should also be an emphasis on hockey because it is a tremendously growing sport."

"Our long range plan is to field a team in one of the high school leagues."

But that project may present some obstacles, admits Hoffman. Some of the players on the team do not attend high school, therefore, wouldn't be eligible to play under the Michigan High School Athletic eligibility rules which states an athlete must be a student in order to compete in any of the MHSAA activities.

"But, I feel we have gotten over our biggest obstacle," said Hoffman, "we have the team, it's practicing and playing, so the foundation is there."

SINCE WE ARE on the subject of getting projects off the ground, Bob Robwentala, with the Garden City Parks and Recreation Department, wants to remind all archery fans that Marv Long, the pro archer and his sharpshooters will be at the Garden City Park for a shootout.

They're hoping to get enough people interested in archery to form a league.

The "Bullseyes" begin at 2 p.m. sharp and if you're interested in the league call either Aaron Sandberg (421-0795) or 565-6577 after 5 p.m.

Usually a coach is bitter when he sees his work shattered before him.

And Mike Riley, Garden City East's head track coach, is bitter. But, not for the obvious reasons. His world crumbled yesterday when it was revealed that several members of his track team were involved in a break-in that netted the thieves 42 football jerseys and three footballs.

The incident came to light on Wednesday and the school administration decided to punish the entire team because, it argued, all the members of the team had knowledge of the break-ins and thefts but didn't report them to their coach or the school administration.

Huron '9' winning streak ends

New Boston Huron High's short-lived unbeaten track string was, indeed, too good to be true.

The Chiefs found that out last week when they withstood a double beating by Huron League foes Carlton Airport and Monroe Catholic Central. Airport crushed the Chiefs, 77-46, but Catholic Central had considerably more trouble in winning narrowly, 63-60.

Huron Coach Mike Matthews pinpointed the absence of two of his top sprinters as the key to the loss to CC. Dashmen John Conley was ill and Charles McDonald quit the team, according to Matthews.

Huron's overall record is better than the league slate, 4-3, and its brief, two-meet winning streak suddenly was

Lodge Lanes bowlers fare well at YBA meet

Belleville bowlers, representing Lodge Lanes, fared well at the recently staged Youth Bowling Association Bowling Tournament held at Airport Lanes.

Twenty-eight youngsters from the lanes in Belleville either won or placed in the top of each division.

Albie Kormos, at 6-year-old, was one of the youngest bowlers to compete. Albie rolled a 624 series with a handicap to win the Peanut Boys Division.

He's a student at St. Stephens School in New Boston and until last June never held a bowling ball in his hands.

Albie bowled last season on the YBA Leagues at the Lodge Lanes and his team finished half-point out of third place and also was awarded a trophy at their banquet for his game of 489.

Teammate Sam Villa was second with a 620 while Belleville's Ed Novak pulled in with a 620.

Randy Calhoun and Carol Goike generated the most of the fanfare in the Junior Division as Randy rolled a 715 series to take the boys' title and Miss Goike collected a 691 to win for the girls.

In the Junior Girls competition Barb Warren finished with a third place after firing a 656 series.

A 684 total in the Major boys class provided Carl Harden with top honors. He beat out Tim Hamilton who polled 679 for his efforts.

The winners of each division will get a shot at the YBA's state championship which is scheduled for Lansing sometime in June.

John Glenn is frontrunner in 1st All-Area track listing

Westland John Glenn, frontrunner in the Northwest Suburban Conference track title race, also heads nine of the 15 events in the area as shown in the inaugural All-Area Track & Field Listing for 1974.

Coach Barry Basel's Rockets have the area's top shot put in Wayne Clemons who has carded a 53 feet, 2½ inch performance. Then, Wes Teeple gives the Westlanders the top rating in the pole vault. He has cleared 14 feet, 1-inch this season.

Glenn's 880-yard relay team of Fred Shoemaker, Terry Bixler, Wayne Clemons and Rick Ellison is the team to beat. The foursome has the best time this season, a 1:31.6.

Meanwhile, Dave Kirst's 1:58.6 for the half-mile and his 4:24.7 in the mile also are the area's best. Teammates Rick Ellison, in the 440-yard dash (50.0) and Ted Miller's 10:50.4 in the 2-mile are the early front runners.

Glenn also holds down the top times in both the mile and 440-yard relay events.

Garden City West's Paul Collins is the premier hurdler in the area thus far. He has been clocked in 14.9 for the highs and 20.6 for the lows.

The area listing is compiled by Rance Teeple who can be reached at 729-5769 after 6 p.m.

RILEY HAD NO comment about the incident when it broke on Wednesday.

Yesterday, the 27-year-old coach expressed his feelings.

"I agree with the moral philosophy behind Mr. Gould's (Gerald C., East principal) decision," said Riley, "society has become too complacent. But I do not agree totally with the decision in this particular case."

"I am personally disappointed in the entire affair because of the grounds I felt we were making with these boys, not only athletically but morally."

"THERE WAS, I felt, a feeling of pride and confidence and we were on the verge of showing people that we were doing something positive and were coming of age in track."

The incident will definitely set the track program back, according to the Panther coach.

"The cancellation of the season surely isn't going to help us move forward," said Riley, who also teaches English and coaches the reserve basketball team at the high school.

Now that the incident has been brought to light, Riley would like to see the matter "dropped."

"I FEEL PEOPLE learn from their experiences - good and bad," said Riley, "and now that this whole thing has come to light I hope everybody learned something from it."

"Causing a furor or schism will help no one and only help perpetuate a bad thing," he added. "I hope we can work together to put the pieces together."

The articulate East coach who earned his bachelor of science degree from Michigan State University and holds a masters in Guidance and Counseling has worked diligently to get the track program off the ground at the high school.

East didn't win a dual track meet in the Northwest Suburban Conference last year and also was winless this season when the revelations about the break-ins broke.

"WE WERE MAKING progress with these kids," said Riley, "I am certain we wouldn't have finished last this season and some of these individuals could have even won league titles."

"Something like this can go two ways—either have a real bad effect on everybody or rally the kids and their parents and school to work even harder to build a successful team."

"I hope the latter is true," he said.

"I'm sure we all do."

Eagle netmen win, 5-2

Romulus and Coach Tom Baldwin will be shooting for their fifth tennis victory of the campaign when Woodhaven comes to town tomorrow night.

The Eagles padded their record to 4-7 on the season Monday by thrashing Ecorse 5-2 in a nonleague meet.

"These kids are maturing fast," said the first year Romulus coach, "and I feel we will be an excellent team when this is all over."

"Our team really rose to the occasion for the Ecorse match," he added.

Romulus swept the doubles but gave up points in the No. 2 and No. 4 singles where Mike Senart and LeAnn Silvey lost to their respective opponents.

Huron '9' continues its batting slump

New Boston Huron High baseball coach Ron Smith figures that the Huron League champion this spring will have to have less than four losses. "The league race is a toss-up since Catholic Central lost, but I'd say the winner will have three losses or less," analyzed Smith.

The Catholic Central loss he referred to came at the hands of upstart Monroe Jefferson last week, which threw the pre-season favorite Centralites out of the league lead for the time being. Flat Rock and Tecumseh continued to stay perfect while hiking their league records to 3-0.

AND HURON came a step closer to being eliminated-by Smith's standards—due to its second straight setback at the hands of Grosse Ile, 7-1.

The Chiefs continued their hitting slump and managed just four safeties off winner Brad Mallock. Two of the hits were registered by freshman third basemen Craig Beattie, filling in for the injured Tim Hinojosa.

"Two things are hurting us now," said Smith, "poor hitting and too many walks given up by our pitchers. They're doing a good job in not allowing many hits, but we're just walking too many."

said. "I think the league winner will have three losses or less."

Currently, Flat Rock and Tecumseh lead the pack with 3-0 marks, followed closely by Catholic Central. Huron is 1-6 overall.

Grosse Ile tagged Kwasnik for four runs in the third then ripped the Chiefs four three more in the sixth. Huron pushed across its only run in the sixth.

Huron's scheduled home game with Airport last Friday was rained out.

A pair of Huron hurlers, beginning with starter and loser Ken Kwasnik, gave Grosse Ile just seven hits-but also 10 walks.

HURON IS 0-2 on the league but Smith is staying calm.

"Two losses don't put you out of it because we have a 14-game league schedule, but we can't afford many more," he evened at 2-2.

Huron notched four victories against unbeaten Airport, including a school record 13-feet in the pole vault by Don Johnson. Johnson also held the old mark of 12'6". The other three Chiefs firsts were taken by Bill Grover in the shot put (44'1"), Mike Sobodash in the long jump (19'11") and the 880 relay team of Keith Frazier, John Conley, Dave Bracciano and Rick Cavavos (1:43.8).

Huron entered Saturday's Tecumseh Relays and took home a sixth place finish in the 13-team field.

MEANDERING WATERWAY — The meanderings of Tonquish Creek is enough to bring the nature out in any city dweller. Add a dash of a natural preserve and a creaky bridge, and the end result is William P. Holliday Park in Westland. Untouched by human hands, the creek,

Unclaimed winnings clog lottery's coffers

Western Wayne County residents should check Michigan Lottery tickets they have purchased because there are many bonus prizes which have never been claimed.

"Millions of dollars in lottery prizes have gone unclaimed since the first drawing in November 1972," according to Gus Harrison, Commissioner of the Bureau of State Lottery. "Approximately 1,000 weekly $25 prizes go unclaimed each week."

"Eleven super drawing tickets worth at least $10,000 have never been claimed, along with 10 second chance tickets worth $5,000 each."

He added that at least one winner still is outstanding from all but one of the bonuses conducted by the lottery in the last year. (The exception is the first lottery bonus during "Michigan Week" in May 1973).

Agents who sold some of the major unclaimed tickets include: Dearborn Moose Lodge No. 162, drawing date June 21, at least a $10,000 prize; Hudson's in Westland Center, drawing date March 28, $5,000 prize; Holiday Hut Party Store in Livonia, drawing date July 5, $1,776; prize, and Tele-Trip No. 2 at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, drawing date Sept. 20, $5,000 prize;

Belleville High student wins forensic tourney

A Belleville High School student has won the first place in the state forensic tournament, held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He is John Dougherty, 16, an eleventh grader and a member of the high school's debate team. John's twin brother, Charles, won a fourth place trophy in the tournament. The brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dougherty of 126 S. Biggs Ave., Belleville.

A third student, Karen Greathouse, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Greathouse of 44450 Harmony Lane, Belleville, was a semi-finalist. She also is a member of the school's debate team.

The brothers are eligible for the national championship to be held in Dallas, Tex., on June 16.

David White, debate team coach said that the Dougherty brothers will be accompanied by Miss Greathouse and Renee Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones of 1005 Zephyr St., Ypsilanti.

John won his first place trophy in the extemporaneous speaking category as did his brother and Miss Greathouse.

Goodfellows give awards

The Belleville-Van Buren Goodfellows Association will present "Outstanding Community Service Awards" to 20 area individuals and organizations at 7:30 p.m. May 14 at the Van Buren Township Hall.

Goodfellow President Jerry Maton said that appreciation plaques will be presented to the nominees in recognition for their assistance in Goodfellow activities in past years.

Mahalak credited with role in passage of bonus measure

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) has been credited with playing a key role in the passage of a bill to provide a Vietnam veteran bonus.

Mahalak said the Michigan Legislature has passed a proposal which provides benefits of $600 to a combat veteran and $450 for others. It will be placed on the Nov. 5 ballot for final approval by the voters.

Mahalak said the plan won House approval by a 79-0 vote last week and was approved by the Senate 35-0. It now will be sent to the governor for his signature.

REP. MAHALAK, a recognized leader in veteran legislation, has worked for a number of years for benefits and assistance programs for returning Vietnam veterans. "This measure, expected to affect some 465,000 former servicemen, is a compromise between a $185 million bill which passed the Senate and the $266 million proposal rejected at the polls in 1972," he said. "Unlike the 1972 plan, the latest measure contains no provision for college tuition payments."

"The bill will ask state voters to approve issuance of general obligation bonds to pay $600 to combat veterans and $15 for each month of service up to a maximum of $450 to non-combat veterans. Veterans of service between Jan. 1, 1961 and Aug. 31, 1973 would qualify. Eligibility would not be limited to service in Vietnam."

An estimated 139,000 former servicemen or those still in uniform could qualify for the maximum payment, along with the widows, children or parents of about 4,000 deceased veterans, Mahalak added. Applicants have to have resided in Michigan at least six months before entering the service and have completed 100 days of active duty. The bill does not call for an increase in taxes to pay for the bonus. It will be provided for from the state's general fund. Mahalak fought actively to win approval of this bill.

After all these years, maybe it's time you moved to bigger and better things.

If you've been considering a bigger house, or a newer one, there'll never be a better time than right now to make your move.

And, right now, National Bank of Detroit can help you make that move. We have mortgage money to lend, and we lend more than any other bank in town.

We'll give you prompt word on the approval of your mortgage loan, and set up your closing in as little as two weeks thereafter at an NBD office in your neighborhood.

We might also save you some money. Our closing fee on uninsured conventional mortgages is a simple flat fee that has nothing to do with the size of your mortgage. And that could possibly save you enough money to buy a new chair for your new home, or carpet one of your new bedrooms.

Why not look into a mortgage loan now at any of the more than 100 offices of NBD. The bank that's ready to help you get a new house—now.
